1986 STATE SUMMARY

The development of public library systems began in Wisconsin in 1973 with the formation of the first four systems. As 1986 ended, two additional counties and eleven public libraries were preparing to join existing systems. As of January 1, 1987 all state public libraries and all but one county were participating members of public library system. The chart on page 39 presents system development since 1973.

Wisconsin has 370 independent public libraries organized around 17 public library systems. These libraries vary considerably in size and services provided. For comparison purposes, home community population was used for classification groupings. Since all public libraries in Wisconsin open their doors to at least all residents of the counties within the system area, home community population does not necessarily represent the actual population being served.

However, several useful observations can be made by classifying libraries by home community population. Charts 1 and 2 present library characteristic totals and the corresponding percent of the state total by population group. For instance, 173 public libraries (46.63% of all public libraries) are located in communities of under 2,000 population. These libraries hold 1,279,261 volumes, 9.35% of all volumes held in Wisconsin public libraries.

About 1.1 million residents, one-quarter of Wisconsin's population, do not have a public library in their home community. Of established public libraries, about two-thirds are located in communities of under 4,000 population and over 75% are in communities of under 8,000 population. The 286 libraries in communities under 8,000 have a total home community population total of about 625,000. The largest 31 public libraries (8.35% of all public libraries) have a total home community population total of over 2.3 million.

Considering the underlying community base, it is not surprising that almost two-thirds of the funds raised and spent in public libraries support the largest 31 libraries. Meanwhile small community libraries representing 75% of all libraries receive and expend about 14% of all funds. Staffing patterns reflect the expenditure distribution. In terms of full time equivalent positions, the 286 small community public libraries employ about 20% of all staff employed by public libraries and public library systems. These same libraries employ 7.5% of all professional public librarians. The largest 31 libraries employ over 58% of all public library and public library system staff and have with them nearly two-thirds of all professional public librarians.

Comparisons of total volumes held show 27% percent of all public library holdings are retained in small public libraries. The largest 31 libraries hold about one-half the total volumes held. Considering the limited number of hours open, circulation totals indicate active small libraries with these libraries accounting for over 20% of all circulation. Middle range public libraries appear to have holdings, circulation and staffing proportionate to their fiscal support.

Funding for public library services grew by approximately 6% from 1985 to 1986 while spending increased by 5.3%. There was a 3.3% increase in the number of full time equivalent professional librarians employed. Overall spending for library personnel increased by 5.5%. The number of video cassette titles held which nearly doubled from 1984 to 1985, increased by over 80% from 1985 to 1986. Periodical titles subscribed to remained about the same. Library holdings of records and tapes increased slightly. The percent decrease in titles added, -2.6%, was less than the decrease in volumes added, -3.5%. The total book collection size increased slightly and remained near the level of the last two years at 13.7 million volumes. Total library material expenditures increased by 8%. Library contract expenditures for services and all other library expenditures increased by 5% from 1985 to 1986.

The source of public library funding remains primarily at the local level with 81.1% of all funds coming from municipalities and counties. State aid to public library systems represents 8.1% of all library income while income from federal sources (mainly Library Services and Construction Act, Title I) constituted 1.5% of revenues. The remaining 9.3% of income is from gifts, trusts and service contracts. Expenditures followed the pattern of recent years with personnel costs accounting for 69% of all funds expended. Fourteen percent of available funds were used to purchase library materials.

PERCENTILE MEASURES FOR PUBLIC LIBRARIES

In 1986 the Wisconsin Public Library Standards Task Force reviewed 1985 public library data. The analysis developed for that review is updated and presented here. This analysis takes the form of percentile charts, indicating a range of reported data for population groupings. Population groupings were created based on public library home community size. These groupings are the same as those shown in Table 1.

The data can be used for comparative planning purposes. For example, a library serving 7,000 people that makes available 5.6 volumes per capita is placed at nearly the 70th percentile (see Table 3); its rate of holdings per capita is greater than that of nearly 70 percent of the libraries in its population group. This analysis will be updated annually.
